

Legion marches on Remembrance Sunday

A contingent of staff from Legion's regional offices once again took part in the march past at the Cenotaph in London on Sunday, 9th November. This year's commemoration marked the 90th anniversary of the 1918 armistice which ended World War I.

Legion are the only commercial company allowed to participate in the march past, and we are proud to be associated with The Royal British Legion Attendants Company Trust and to support the excellent work of the charity in assisting ex servicemen and women.

Legion also provided security services for the Field of Remembrance on Thursday 8th November, where the veterans and their families attended Westminster Abbey and the Queen and Prince Philip were guests of honour.

We would like to thank all our staff who represented Legion Group and our parent company, the Royal British Legion Attendants Company Trust, at this important ceremonial event.